

JerMar Designs is a full-service luxury interior design studio in New Canaan, Connecticut, committed to creating luxurious spaces that elevate the everyday. Jeanne Collins founded JerMar Designs with the understanding that making beautiful interiors is the “easy part,” and that custom residential projects take serious business acumen to execute. Following a successful early career in technology and many well-executed residential design projects, Jeanne Collins completed her education at Parsons School of Design and The New York Institute of Art + Design and launched JerMar Designs in 2020.

JerMar Designs is a firm to watch, with an ever-growing portfolio of beautiful homes (as seen in the pages of Architectural Digest, Luxe Interiors + Design, Bedford & New Canaan Magazine and Serendipity Magazine) that showcase Jeanne’s serene aesthetic and sophisticated knowledge of building materials and custom furnishings. Inspired by the historic New England architecture in Fairfield County, JerMar Designs layers contemporary styles with traditional elements. The results are luxurious spaces that provide a sense of calm, sophistication and elegance.

State-of-the-art, concierge services set JerMar Designs apart. From fun perks like branded bottles of YETI and Veuve Cliquot at installs, to detailed project management tools and 3-D renderings that allow clients to fully visualize the design and investment in their homes, JerMar Designs understands the homeowner perspective. With an extensive design education and decades of business expertise, Jeanne Collins ensures that every JerMar Designs project is not only beautiful but that it is seamlessly executed as well.
